Town Dump, a Meeting Place for Politicians and Philosophers, Running Out of Land

To most Princeton residents, the dump on River Road is a convenient place at the far end of town in which to dispose of trash, the used-up, worn-out, rejected, replaced and trimmed end-products of a throwaway society.

To others, such as the members of the tri-partite Sewer Operating Committee under whose aegis it falls, it is sanitary landfill and subject to the rules and regulations of the Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Solid Waste Management.

By either name, dump or landfill, it is also a source of firewood, tree trunk slabs with which to make coffee tables, and flagstones for a terrace. "Resource Recovery" is a term for modern technology and multi-million dollar installations which automatically shred trash of all kinds and winnow out metal, glass and paper for recycling But people have been coming to the dump for years to find serviceable chairs and cast-off kitchen cabinets, small motors with usable parts and such items as baby carriages or tricycles in need of minor repairs.

The dump is also a great open air meeting place, a high, cleared area with a fine view across to the hills of Kingston, where many of the private garbage collectors gather beside their trucks to harangue politicians of any stripe and to lament the state of almost anything. For them the dump is an essential part of their business as they ply the streets of Borough and Township to give backdoor service to those who wish to pay for it.

A dumping area, a brush pile and a depository of heavier construction debris all in one, it is presided over in a friendly way by George Allen, 12-year veteran municipal employee Six days a week, from 8:30 to 3:30, and in all weather ("This winter, it was COLD!" he recalls with a shiver) Mr. Allen tends the dump as carefully as a gardner his vegetable patch, and offers an almost out-of-fashion service-with-a smile to all comers.

It is he who helps dig the pit for the dumping area, "birming" up the dirt around it to a level specified by the D.E.P. From the cab of his bulldozer, he packs down the trash in the dump area daily, pausing to allow people to recover any resources they might wish, and covering it with a layer of dirt. No buzzards circle over this dump, no rats are present; when Mr. Allen gets a deer hit by a car, or fish trimmings from the fish market, he is careful to cover them up well and promptly

'The situation is bleak but not disastrous," says George Olexa, Borough Engineer who is also sanitary engineer for the Sewer Operating Committee, "but the majority of the land is not going to be useable for us." Olexa and Cliff Bischoff, one of the two University representatives to the Sewer Operating Committee, recently went to Monmouth County to watch a Resource Recovery unit at work. Constructed with Federal Revenue Sharing Funds at a cost of $21/2 million, it is a two-sided operation in which trucks dump their load onto a conveyor belt leading into a grinder. Garbage is shredded into particles "the size of your fist" and then is passed over magnetic drums which remove the ferrous metals before the remainder is compacted and landfilled.

Monday Is July 4 - But No Fireworks

The American Legion, which annually sponsored the bursts of color in the skies over Palmer Stadium accompanied by the deep booms which were a source of delight or fright, depending on your age and sensitivity, will not stage fireworks in Princeton this year.

After the July 1974 display, the Legion decided it could no longer absorb the mounting costs - and the occasional losses when the weather was bad - of enlisting experts in pyrotechnics. There were no fireworks in 1975.

Then in 1976 a great hue and cry arose insisting that the Bicentennial Fourth of July could not pass without fireworks. Community support was enlisted, merchants agreed to underwrite any loss and the Jaycees undertook the job of traffic control. Tickets were at a Bicentennial bargain of $1 and added interest was sparked by the appearance of two drum and bugle corps.

D. Don Richards of the American Legion says that he hopes to reorganize a committee so that "higger and better fireworks" can take place next year. Meanwhile, the next best thing is the Pops Concert by the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra to be held Sunday evening in the fields next to Jadwin Gym. As a grand finale to Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture," canon hooms and rocket flares written into the score by the composer will be staged by the specialists who have been responsible for spectaculars at Jones Beach Marine Theater on Long Island.

TRACK PROGRAM SET

For Youth in West Windsor, For the second year the West Windsor Recreation Commission is sponsoring a summer track and field program for West Windsor and Plainsboro youth who have completed grades five through eight.

Registration will be $8 for 14 sessions to be held every Tuesday and Thursday starting on July 5. The two hour sessions start at 6 at the West Windsor High School track. Registration for the program will be held Saturday from 10 to 12 in front of the High School.

Coach Tom Ritter of the High School track team will run the program, which will include instruction in sprinting, distance running, high -jumping, long jumping, shot putting and throwing the discus. The purpose is to give girls and boys a chance to try the various track and field events, test themselves, learn the skills and experience the joy of seeing themselves improve.

The professional and volunteer help last year made this program an excellent opportunity for anyone interested in track and field. Adults who can volunteer help, and children with questions are urged to call Justin Kodner, 799-0944.

> CYCLIST IS ASSAULTED By Driver on 206. A 16-year old bicyclist from Shrewsbury was assaulted last week by a driver of a car on Route 206.

According to police, the cyclist, Neil Wynberg, shouted an obscenity when a car passed him and blew its horn. The driver, police said, stopped his car, got out and asked Mr. Wynberg what he had said. "Nothing," replied Mr. Wynberg.

Whereupon the driver picked up a rock, closed his fist around it and struck the victim in the right eye with his fist. Before he drove off, the driver, Mr. Wynberg reported, warned him not to say anything.

The assailant was described as weighing between 170 and 180 and over six feet tall. Supplied the registration of the driver, police were able to obtain the name and address of the suspect but are withholding it

EXPANSION STORY

By Julius H. Gross. For years - 18 in fact - Julius H. Gross has been a familiar name around Princeton. Known for his excellent painting and wallpapering services, he actually has a background in textiles starting with training by his father in Switzerland and including work at the New School of Interior Design.

Some time ago, he expanded his business to include a shopat-home area for selecting papers and fabrics. However, many customers preferred stopping by to see the samples themselves, and since he lived in a residential area, a showroom became necessary.

The result is the handsome new Julius H. Gross Interior Design Showroom on Hulfish Street, offering a complete decorating service. In adfahric, papers, carpets, furniture, accessories, or whatever else you might need.

The selection is extremely broad. For instance, there are 200 Trend carpet samples. making it possible to choose blinds that can be ordered in $33 to $53. not only the right color but colors or covered with fabric also whatever texture you or paper to match anything, prefer.

The showroom also has many lamps -- such as traditional ones with oriental porcelain bases or contemporary ones with a base of lucite squares

There is, of course, much more, even some furniture, including a few antiques, and what isn't here can probably be found by one of the designers on a trip to New York.

In addition, this is only the first part of Julius H. Gross Interior Design Showroom, for the finishing touches are being made in an adjoining store that will feature paints and more wallpapers. Both are at 4-6 Hulfish Street and the hours are 9 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday.

statement regarding the athletic insurance for the Princeton Regional Schools. Mr. Fuschini in the second paragraph referred to Walter B. Howe, Inc. receiving a "handsome premlum". Mr. Fuschini could not possibly know what the premium was and further, premiums on athletic insurance are hardly "handsome" by prepared and incomplete

anyone's standards. We did not handle the insurance at all during the time of Mr. Fuschini's concern. Typical of the indictment-with-immunity type letter, Mr. Fuschini implied that there was some "mysterious" reason why different carriers had been used. There are numerous conditions which do not permit insurance carriers to continue under certain load conditions. is nothing There mysterious about that process. It is legal, honest and customary.

The facts of the matter are that in the absence of Mr. Fuschini's agent we attempted to assist him. The C.W. Bollinger Company, which was the policy writing company, denied liability to the claim because there was a preexisting condition involving Mr. Fuschini's son and no insurance company will pick up pre-existing conditions in this type of policy.

With respect to the company that was writing the insurance when Mr. Fuschini's son was injured, namely the Dominion Life Insurance Company of Canada, it appears that the claim had been submitted after the policy period terminated. Mr. Fuschini local some sights physicians, who are apparently making judgment that "the athletic insurance is inadequate". which seems like a strange place to go for insurance information since you can rarely find medical information dispensed at an insurance office.

Mr. Fuschini's letter condemned the high cost of the insurance premium but conversely demands increased benefits. This is typical of a situation where "trying to be a good fellow" in attempting to assist a person with apparent difficulties results in a public and undeserved slap in the face. I suggest that Mr. Fuschini would better serve himself if he were better prepared before making a public indictment without substance

Turner to Close Photographic Studio, Ending Six Decades of Picture-Taking in Princeton

Orren Jack Turner, a name that the Princeton area and a good part of the world beyond has come to associate with fine portrait photography done in traditional style, is closing his studio and retiring from the business this September, after more than 60 years in operation.

"I have always liked what I do and I have always been pretty good at what I do, if I may say so," explains Mr. Turner, whose father, Orren Jack Turner Sr. started the business and operated it for years in the Nassau Street building now occupied by Landau's. Jack Jr. moved the business to Hopewell in 1967. "But now the time has come to do different things. If nothing else I'll put my feet up, drink some bourbon and give myself six months or so to catch up in the years beyond that," Mr. she felt needed to be said. with the world."

The Turner Style

Orren Jack Turner Sr., who died in 1969, set standards for his photography work that would make amateur picture takers see double. In taking a bridal portrait, for example, he viewed the bride as a pyramid, from the crown to the train, which always was shown in the photograph.

He refused to take photographs in the church. "The sanctity of the marriage sacrament should never be polluted for commercial reasons," he once was quoted as Those attempting to make him compromise his standards did so at their own risk. On one occasinn, it is said, a New York newspaper offered him $500 to reproduce a portrait of an heiress who had become involved in a seamy story. Mr. Turner refused.

He then discovered a photographer from the paper in his studio, trying to shoot a copy of the original. The photographer was thrown out; the picture was locked up.

The studio's founder continued to light his subjects with natural sky lighting long after it was abandoned by other photographers. He viewed himself as an artist, and spoke of his work in terminology similar to that used in Professor E. Baldwin Smith's art lectures, which Mr. Turner audited in

DRAKES CORNER ROAD

We offer Princeton's finest residential property. Built in the early thirties, this is an exquisitely crafted American house with unusual structural strength and authentic architectural detail. Selected Pennsylvania Stone, concrete and stone foundations, and reinforced concrete subfloors provide the strength. Antique glazing, panelling, fireplace mantles, plank flooring, hardware and other architectural antiquities too numerous to mention were painstakingly collected and integrated to create an interior of extraordinary charm, taste and value. The main house is divided into three charming apartments plus the center or owner's section. The latter includes on first floor a front to back center hall, a study with corner fireplace and bookshelves; a main living room with fine panelling, beams and fireplace, spacious dining room with fireplace, tile hearth, and lovely antique mantle and corner cupboard; informal dining room with polished brick floors, special shelving and walk-in fireplace, mudroom, large kitchen and pantry area with adjoining maids quarters. On the second floor a master suite with huge dressing room and bedroom bath with fireplace, a private stairway to the living room below, a master bath, plus four other bedrooms and three baths. Huge floored attic over the entire house, full basement with finished gameroom. Oil fired hot water heat with individual room thermostats. To the North of the driveway is a complex of outbuildings including a guest or caretaker's cottage, a four car garage, and stable or machinery building. The grounds, twenty four acres in all, include a tennis court and spring fed swimming pool, sweeping lawns, huge shade trees, gardens and protective forest. Price and further details upon request!

Second Pictorial History of Princeton Looks at Town's Past From Part Washington Played Here to Post-World War II Years was easy-definitely easy, at least in one part of 19th century Princeton recalled in the Historical Society's handsomely produced new journal, 'Princeton History, Number

"My father and his friends entertained a good deal, writes Eleanor Marquand Delanoy of her father, Professor Allan Marquand, and the house in which he and his family lived for many years, Guernsey Hall.

"They gave housepartieswell chaperoned--which the ladies who told me about them in their later years considered very gay, as they stid down the long staircase on tin trays and sat on branches of trees in such a way as to reveal their ankles! There were also formal occasions such as the lunch-party my father gave to welcome ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland when they settled in Princeton."

The book in which Mrs. Delanoy's reminiscences appear is a testament to bygone days, of course, demonstrated by the fact that her old family home is now a five-unit condominium at the corner of Mercer Street and ∡over's Lane.

This volume of "Princeton History" is a sequel to the one published in 1971 by the Historical Society. That one, described by the Society as "a model for publications devoted to local and regional studies," was edited by Alfred L. Bush, with Lucius Wilmerding Jr., Lewis B. Cuyler, Bruce H. French, Constance M. Greiff and Wheaton J. Lane serving on the editorial board.

The same group has overseen production of Number Two, which includes other chapters on "The Great Princeton Mail Robbery," by Wilmerding; "The Princeton Group," by Ernest Gordon; "Alexander Hall at the Seminary," by Robert S. Beaman; and "General Washington's Highway," by Elizabeth G.C. Menzies.

In his review of the guidebooks, William Morgan adds some information the authors omitted Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor who produced the monkeys, gargoyles, and tigers of Seventy-Nine Arch on the University campus, also created the monumental portraits of Mount Rushmore.

SUMMER INTIME READY "Candida" Opens Thur-sday. Summer Intime's drama series celebrates its 70th anniversary season this Thursday with the opening of George Bernard Shaw's season according to Geoffrey Rich, producer of Sl. "Subscription sales are up by 30 percent from last year. We're expecting this to be our biggest season ever.'

Tickets are still available at the air-conditioned Murray Theatre on the Princeton Philadelphia-New York area. University campus.

The company is putting the final touches on its production of "Candida," a play which has been called both romantic and anti-romantic. It is an insightful exploration of a love triangle which raises questions of conflicting social attitutdes ranging from the place of God in the bedroom to the place of the typist in a barroom. Though written in 1898, "Candida" has more to say on behalf of women's rights than Hedda Gabler or Bella Abzug.

Shaw's comedy is getting added inspiration from Kathy Mendeloff, the only woman chosen to direct at SI this summer. Ms. Mendeloff will remembered by the Princeton community for her award-winning and recordbreaking production of "Lysistrata" and "The Caucasian Chalk Circle."

As an undergraduate at Princeton, she was the recipient of the Frances LeMoyne Page award for outstanding contribution to Princeton theatre. She has since been studying directing at the Yale School of Drama, where she has staged and acted in the works of Ibsen. Shakespeare, and American playwrights

Here's a surprising fact ... Did you know that in the entire history of big league baseball since 1900, there have been only two 9-inning games in which a team scored in every inning You'd think it would have happened more often than that, but it hasn't ... The Cards achieved this feat in a game against the Cubs in 1964 ... The only other 9-inning big league game in which it happened this century was in 1923 when the Giants scored in every inning in game against the

Did you know that the New York Yankees originally had a different nickname? When they entered the American League in 1903, their nickname was the Highlanders ... They didn't become the Yankees till 1913.

"We officiated in a white sweater with an NCAA em-blcm on the left side," Fleet

The Eastern Hockey Officials Association, the first body of organized officials in the sport in the United States, had its beginnings in the early 1930s. Fleet was one of the initial members and helped struggling the organization together. The EHOA first appeared in the NCAA Official Ice Hockey Guide in 1934-35.

Fleet also officiated in the Tri-State Hockey League which expanded later to the Eastern Amateur Hockey League, in the NCAA member colleges Divisions I and II from 1928 to 1958 and for many years in the Ivy League.

He was president of the Metro (N.J. and N.Y.) Chapter of the EHOA and NIHOA in the late 1940s and early '50s and saw the number of chapters expand from two to more than 30 across the country.

Honesty to himself as a referee and to the players was always the one rule he used as an official, he said. In a community filled with extraordinary citizens, Walter R. Fleet must be counted as
